Conference of Governors Held at the White House.

RESOURCES OF THE NATION

Their Conservation the Subject of Consideration by the First Meeting of Its Kind in the History of the Country.

Washington, May 14.—Two ideas, destined to mark material progress in America's future resulted from the first of the three-days' conference at the White House, in which President Roosevelt, the governors of forty-four states, cabinet officers, supreme court judges, senators, representatives and experts are participating in efforts to reach conclusions on the best methods of conserving the natural resources of the United States.

The first is that a permanent organization by the states and the nation is necessary and will likely result from the present conference, to accomplish the end sought. The second—suggested by Secretary Root—is that there is no limitation by the Constitution to the agreements which may be made between the states, subject to the approval of congress. The two ideas, fully developed, it is predicted, would result in the conservation of the energies and resources of the nation through uniform and unconflicting laws, both national and state.

The idea that the conference should be perpetuated developed in the form of resolutions offered for later consideration by Governor Glenn of North Carolina and Governor Folk of Missouri. There were many others, but a parliamentary move to save time sent them to a committee for consideration.

Important Developments.

So crowded was the day with interesting and important developments and so fraught with history-making possibilities—material, political and social—to make but a categorical enumeration of events would go to give the best conclusion of the occasion.

Forty-four governors of sovereign states of the Union sat on gilded chairs in the historic East room of the White House and chatted from 10 to 11 o'clock in the morning. Five hundred other persons taxed the capacity of the room. They were cabinet officers, supreme court justices, senators, representatives, experts in all lines of industry. With a flourish of trumpets the president and vice president entered at 11 o'clock and the conference, the first of its kind in the history of the nation, began.

The setting for the scene was magnificent and impressive. It was in the East room, designed in colonial days and occupying the entire east end of the mansion. It is elegant in its polished oak floors, white walls and cell-ing, rich in simplicity of decoration and gold plush draperies. The assemblage faced the east wall, which was made resplendent by a platform done in green plush, backed by two large framed maps of the United States, showing in colors its various resources in the center of which was a device for the production of colored glass illustrations of the speeches, with a glaring reproduction of a forest fire on view. Seats of honor directly in front of these maps were occupied by members of the president's cabinet and justices of the supreme court. The president and vice president occupied high-backed green plush chairs on either side of the center.

The First Climax.

There was no doubting the first climax of the day. It was the reception of the president. He had been at work in the executive offices up to the very minute of convening. He entered the East room on the minute of 11 o'clock, as the Marine band rendered the presidential honors. The governors arose; they clapped their hands, they shouted. Five hundred others took their cue and the demonstration became tumultuous. Then followed a hush. The venerable Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the senate, leaning one arm on the back of the chair on which the president was seated, read the scriptures, the description of the fertility of the land promised the children of Israel, and followed it with a supplication for guidance in the present undertaking.

President Roosevelt here began his explanation of the reason for the conference. His fifty-minute speech was many times interrupted by applause and when he finally reached his point of praise to the inland waterways commission and declared with characteristic vigor that should congress neglect to perpetuate the commission, "I will do it myself," he "captured" the assemblage. The governors stood up and shouted, senators and congressmen added a laugh to their applause and general assent was given the sentiment.

The president's speech ended the morning session. He, with the vice president, shook hands with each member of the assemblage. The governors and delegates were photographed with the president on the portico of the White House. The picture will also show William J. Bryan, Andrew Carnegie, J. J. Hill and Gustav Schwab, specially invited participants.

It was at the afternoon session that the real work of the conference began, and the session proceeded at a rate that broke all speed regulations. It developed first that the president finds it impossible to devote his entire time to the conference meetings. He will call to order each session and then designate a governor to preside. This honor first fell on Governor Noel of Mississippi, with the intimation from the president that he next should call upon Governor Johnson of Minnesota. Then, after this announcement, as if his political instinct had received a shock, the president suddenly called upon Mr. Bryan to interrupt the programme and incidentally the prepared speech of Mr. Andrew Carnegie, and address the meeting. Mr. Bryan acknowledged the enthusiasm his name aroused by lifting his hands and then indicated a desire to speak later.

It was from the utterances of Mr. Carnegie and those who followed him that the gravity of the problems to be considered were given weight. Two hundred years of coal supply and that of iron was the prediction of the famous ironmaster. These facts he bore home with detail, but good naturedly hinted that he would be disappointed "by my friend, J. J. Hill."

There were ways by which both the coal and iron supplies might be conserved, according to Mr. Carnegie—by economies in mining and in use, and the development of water transportation, which he said required less of both products.

Resolutions Poured In.

It was at the conclusion of Mr. Carnegie's address that the resolutions began to pour in.

The two above referred to which were read, received such approval that the prediction was made of their ultimate adoption.

Dr. I. C. White of West Virginia predicted the exhaustion of the Pittsburgh coal supply in ninety-three years, and the West Virginia fields in practically the same time.

John Mitchell, former head of the United Mine Workers of America, received a cordial reception for the ideas advanced. He estimated that fully 25 per cent of the coal in the mines already developed had been wasted in mining, and a much greater percentage in use. Without such waste, which he believed might be overcome, the supply of coal would last 2,000 instead of 200 years, as predicted.

Governor Johnson of Minnesota made a lively talk in which he took issue with Mr. Carnegie's statement that wasteful methods prevailed in iron mining in the Lake Superior region and cheerfully assured that gentleman that "Mr. Hill will be glad to take issue with him on some things." Two problems, he said, confronted the conference—one was the conservation of the natural resources, the other the true development of industry. One, he said, was as great as the other.

Technical Information.

Technical information was next supplied the conference by Dr. C. R. Van Hise of the University of Michigan. John Hayes Hammond, who has the reputation of being the highest palming engineer in the country, read a paper on engineering methods, in which he contended that while there was no way to revolutionize mining methods, they might be improved gradually.

The climax of the afternoon session was the speech of Secretary of State Elihu Root. Mr. Root was received with great enthusiasm and the marks he made met approval by a demonstration equalled only by that accorded the president on his entrance at the morning session.

The connection which the treasury department might bear to the question under discussion was dwelt upon by Secretary Cortelyou, who followed Mr. Root.

Governor Dawson of West Virginia dilated on the resources of his state. Dr. Angel of the University of Michigan added his encouragement to the convention.

The status of all delegates, whether governors or their special assistants, was settled by the adoption of a motion by Governor Hoch of Kansas that all persons invited to the conference have equal floor privileges.

The resolutions committee, which was appointed at the suggestion of the president, consists of Governors Blanchard, Louisiana; Fort, New Jersey; Cutler, Utah; Davidson, Wisconsin; Ansel, South Carolina.

Governor Burke of North Dakota was elected honorary secretary.

Roosevelt, the governors of forty-four states, cabinet officers, supreme court reach conclusions on the best methods of conserving the natural resources of the United States.

The first is that a permanent organization by the states and the nasult from the present conference, to accomplish the end sought. The second—suggested by Secretary Root—is that there is no limitation by the Constitution to the agreements which may be made between the states, subject to the approval of congress. The two ideas, fully developed, it is predicted, would result in the conservation of the energies and resources of the nation through uniform and un-conflicting laws, both national and

The idea that the conference should be perpetuated developed in the form of resolutions offered for later consideration by Governor Glenn of North Carolina and Governor Folk of Missouri. There were many others, but esting and important developments and so fraught with history-making possibilities—material, political and social—to make but a categorical enumeration of events would go to give

Forty-four governors of sovereign states of the Union sat on gilded

11 o'clock in the morning. Five hundred other persons taxed the capacity of the room. They were cabinet officers, supreme court justices, senators, representatives, experts in all lines of industry. With a flourish of trumpets the president and vice president entered at 11 o'clock and the conference, the first of its kind in the history of the nation, began.

The setting for the scene was magnificent and impressive. It was in the East room, designed in colonial days and occupying the entire east end of the mansion. It is elegant in its polished oak floors, white walls and ceiling, rich in simplicity of decoration and gold plush draperies. The assemblage faced the east wall, which was made resplendent by a platform done in green plush, backed by two large framed maps of the United States, showing in colors its various resources in the center of which was a device for the production of colored glass illustrations of the speeches, with a glaring reproduction of a forest fire on view. Seats of honor directly in front of these maps were occupied by members of the president's cabinet and justices of the supreme court.

The president and vice president occupied high-backed green plush chairs on either side of the center.

The First Climax.

There was no doubting the first climax of the day. It was the reception of the president. He had been at work in the executive offices up to the very minute of convening. He entered the East room on the minute senate, leaning one arm on the back of the chair on which the president was seated, read the scriptures, the description of the fertility of the land promised the children of Israel, and followed it with a supplication for guidance in the present undertaking.

President Roosevelt here began his explanation of the reason for the conference. His fifty-minute speech was many times interrupted by applause and when he finally reached his point of praise to the inland waterways commission and declared with characteristic vigor that should congress neglect to perpetuate the commission,
"I will do it myself," he "captured" the assemblage. The governors stood up and shouted, senators and congressmen added a laugh to their applause and general assent was given the sentiment.

The president's speech ended the morning session. He, with the vice president, shook hands with each member of the assemblage. The governors and delegates were photographed with the president on the portico of the White House. The picture will also show William J. Bryan, Andrew Carnegie, J. J. Hill and Gustav Schwab, specially invited participants.

It was at the afternoon session that the real work of the conference began, and the session proceeded at a rate that broke all speed regulations.
It developed first that the president finds it impossible to devote his entire will call to order each session and

This honor first fell on Governor Noel of Mississippi, with the intimation from the president that he next should

Mr. Bryan acknowledged the enthusiasm his name aroused by lifting his

Dr. I. C. White of West Virginia predicted the exhaustion of the Pitts-instead of 200 years, as predicted.

Cook the Kaiser Honored Tells Us How to Eat.

"USE DISCRETION AND TASTE"

Our Pie Won't Do For Paris, Says French Visitor—Will Tell Us About Pork and Beans Later—Considers Pretty Women Good For the Appetite.

"Just as cooking is a fine art, so is eating, and to know how to eat well is to know how to live well."

This sentiment was expressed by G. A. Escoffier, on whom the kaiser bestowed the title of "prince of chefs" as he stood the other day on the deck of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland. He came to New York in connection with the opening of the new Ritz-Carlton hotel and during his stay on this side will be the guest of Alexander Gasteaux, his pupil, now chef at the Hotel Knickerbocker.

According to his card, M. Escoffier claims a residence both in London and at Monte Carlo. He is the head of the famous Ritz-Carlton restaurant system.

"I have come here," he said, "to study American cooking and American tastes. I want to see what your countrymen like. It is a sort of character study of a nation, for by eating you can tell much of character."

"You ask me if I invent dishes. Yes, for that is true art—the creative. I am constantly exploring, as it were, and every week I invent new dishes. In deed, I have just invented a dish the foundation of which is guinea fowl. What I want now is a name for it. If you can give it a suitable name, I will give you the best of dinners."

"Much can be said of the art of dining. One should be guided not only by inclination, but by taste. One might say there are dishes to meet every mood. One should not eat everything on a menu—that is, begin at the beginning and run through the bill. Use discretion, use taste. It is not a true gourmet who will seek to eat all solely because of the opportunity to do so."

"It is the exercise of the art of cooking that stimulates the exercise of the art of eating."

"Where are the best cooks to be found?"

"I believe that in France the art of cooking finds its highest expression."

"It has been said that French cooking leads to Bright's disease."

The prince-chef smiled.

"It is not the cooking, I fear. It all depends on the gourmet. A glutton will be a glutton, no matter what the country. I repeat that to eat well is to live. Some of the simpler dishes are often the most tasty."

"Are good cooks born or made?"

"Much depends on the cook and much on his application to study. Some will never be cooks. I was very young when my father apprenticed me to an uncle in Nice. It was there that I learned many of the rudiments of the art."

"Was I a born cook? Ah! Who knows? To know how to mix, how much to add, how long to cook; to create artistic dishes which please the most fastidious—perhaps all that is inspiration. Who does the most good in the world, the man who invents a new drink or the one who invents a new dish? Most assuredly the man who invents the dish. His work is one for humanity."

"Have you studied the American dishes—pork and beans and pie?"

M. Escoffier smiled.

"At long range, it might be said, yes. Your great dish, pie—it will do for America, but it will not become popular in Paris. Oh, no! However, after I have studied American dishes and likes I will talk on that."

That a good cook must have a knowledge of chemistry is the opinion of M. Escoffier.

"You must know as much of the chemistry of cooking as of cooking itself," he said. "That pertains to cooking. How could you invent or compound if you did not know what combinations would do injury?"

That the prince of chefs is not without a sense of the fitness of things was shown in his reply to a question as to what helped to make a good dinner. He said:

"Nothing adds so much zest to a good dinner as to have a pretty woman sitting opposite you."

One of M. Escoffier's latest dishes is Fraises Victorie Louise. The chef served France in the Franco-Prussian war. He was captured and when brought before the king of Prussia told his occupation. Later the king voted him an excellent chef.

Three years ago he became the head of the Ritz-Carlton system, and he is himself the owner of a restaurant at Ostend.

French Raid Tribesmen.

Casa Blanca, Morocco, May 14.—General d'Amade, at the head of the three columns, conducted a raid on the tribesmen living in the Madakra mountains. He razed their crops and destroyed several camps. The French had six men wounded.

The Zany.

I can remember when a circus clown was spoken of as a "zany," a word now only found in colored alphabets for children, disinterred from the dictionary to meet the exigencies of the letter Z. This is, I think, a beautiful word. It is of course the soft Venetian form of Giovanni, as SS. Giovanni e Paolo is "Zanipolo" in the speech of the gondoliers.—London Outlook.

FUNDS FOR COURT HOUSE
Koochiching County Has Secured Funds for the Erection of a Court House—Works Begins Soon

SPECIAL TO THE DISPATCH:—
International Falls, Minn., May 14.—The county of Koochiching, which has been using the town hall of this village for a court house since the organization of the county nearly two years ago, has succeeded in making arrangements for funds for the erection of a fine new court house and work will commence in the near future.

The rain of Tuesday night was of value in stopping the many forest fires which were again becoming a menace. It is hoped that this is the last trouble of this kind that will be experienced this spring.

The work of grading and ballasting on the Minnesota & International railroad is progressing finely, although the work is tied up today by the breaking of a steam shovel last evening. Work will be resumed Friday.

Notice
The Casino roller rink will be open Thursday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoons only. Anyone wishing to do so may rent the rink for dancing or private skating parties or church suppers any of the other four nights. E. C. BANE, Mgr. 292t2

TO ENCOURAGE MILL

Commercial Club Refers the Matter of Encouraging Fricker Bros. to Manufacturing Committee

There was comparatively little doing beyond regular routine business at the regular meeting of the Commercial Club Wednesday.

Dr. Werner Hemstead stated that the Fricker Bros. were talking of erecting their mill elsewhere than in Brainerd unless they could get some assurance from the merchants of an output for their flour in this city. He urged that the club take the matter up with the local merchants and see what could be done in the matter.

A letter from the Red Wing Printing company to get out some booklets for the Commercial Club to advertise the city was referred to the advertising committee.

A letter from The Pickett Family, aerial trapezists, wanting to appear in Brainerd in connection with any street carnival or other affair of the sort was referred to the public affairs committee.

The secretary, W. D. McKay brought up the matter of curbing the streets in the Second ward and wanted the club to take up some action in order to get the matter under way so as to have the assessments levied this fall, but the club showed no interest in the matter and no action was taken. A request from the secretary that the club take up the matter of assisting in getting an extension of time on the Crow Wing dam proposition through congress met with a similar fate and the club adjourned.

"The Whole Family"

Yesterday was observed a day of prayer by the Baptist people. The meeting in the evening was on a par with the preceding ones in tone and power. The sermon was strong and effective, the singing was excellent. The new campaign song by the chorus will be used again. Several persons indicated their purpose to begin the Christian life.

Tonight the topic is "Family Life," an address that Mr. McKinney has given in other places, and is unstintingly praised by those who have heard it. It is an important theme and ought to have a wide hearing. There will be good music. The ladies' quartette will sing "Home Sweet Home." There will also be a solo. At the close the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

DID NOT KNOW BAR WAS OPEN

Mr. Beare's Attorney Stated that the Bar was Open Contrary to Instructions

PLEAD GUILTY AND PAID FINES

Geo. Ridley and Thos. Beare Changed Their Pleas in the Municipal Court Today

When the case of the State of Minnesota vs. George Ridley was called in the municipal court this morning the court room was crowded with interested spectators. Attorney Frank D. Larrabee, of Minneapolis, appeared for Mr. Ridley and asked leave to change his plea of not guilty to guilty. He stated that this was the first offense and asked for light sentence. County Attorney Warner then addressed the court and said that it was not the desire of the parties back of the prosecution to mulct the saloon men in a large amount of money but that the time had come when the violations of law must cease. He asked the court to impose such fine as would show that the prosecution was in earnest and not there for fun, but was willing that a comparatively light fine should be inflicted.

Judge Albright in passing sentence stated that as Mr. Ridley had changed his plea to guilty and saved the city the expense of a trial he would be more lenient than otherwise would be the case. After cautioning the defendant to keep strictly within the law in his work as a bar tender he imposed a fine of $20 and costs, making a total of $21.

The case against Mr. Beare was then called and he also appeared through Mr. Larrabee and changed his plea. Mr. Larrabee said that he wished to state in connection with the change of plea that Mr. Beare stated that the bar was open without his knowledge and contrary to his express instructions. He also quoted a decision of the supreme court which held that the unlocking of a saloon or bar room without doing it for the sale of liquor did not constitute an offense. He called attention to this fact because the lighting plant of the Ransford and stores used in the hotel were located in the saloon and it was necessary for the hotel employees to enter the bar room on Sunday on perfectly legitimate business. Mr. Larrabee also asked for a light sentence in this case. Mr. Warner spoke in about the same strain as in the first case. Judge Albright imposed the same sentence as in the Ridley case, $20 and cost. Costs were stipulated at $1 in each case. Judge Fleming appeared with Larrabee in the cases but did not actively participate in the proceedings.

Brownsville Affair Put Over by Senate Until Next December.

Washington, May 14.—The further consideration of the Brownsville affair was postponed by the senate until Dec. 16, next. This decision was reached after an extended exchange of views among senators. After a motion by Senator Culbertson of Texas to vote on the bill next Saturday was laid on the table, Mr. Foraker's motion was adopted by a vote of 62 to 6. Mr. Foraker gave out a statement saying that while he could not have passed the bill now he thinks he has insured its passage by the postponement.

Senator Rayner's resolution directing the president to appoint a court of inquiry to investigate the case of Colonel William F. Stewart of the army, now stationed at Fort Grant, Ariz., was referred to the committee on military affairs with an understanding that Senator Rayner would appear before that committee to make a further statement on the Stewart case.

The senate passed the house bill restoring the motto "In God We Trust" on coins of the United States.

CONSIDERATION POSTPONED

Brownsville Affair Put Over by Senate Until Next December.

Washington, May 14.—The further consideration of the Brownsville affair was postponed by the senate until Dec. 16, next. This decision was reached after an extended exchange of views among senators. Mr. Foraker, after urging the appointment of an early day for voting on his bill, moved that it be taken up next December. After a motion by Senator Culberson of Texas to vote on the bill next Saturday was laid on the table, Mr. Foraker's motion was adopted by a vote of 62 to 6. Mr. Foraker gave out a statement saying that while he could not have passed the bill now he thinks he has insured its passage by the postponement.

Senator Rayner's resolution directing the president to appoint a court of inquiry to investigate the case of Colonel William F. Stewart of the army, now stationed at Fort Grant, Ariz., was referred to the committee on military affairs with an understanding that Senator Rayner would appear before that committee to make a further statement on the Stewart case.

The senate passed the house bill restoring the motto "In God We Trust" on coins of the United States.

The proposed repeal of the commodity clause of the rate bill was considered at some length.

Logansport, Ind., May 14.—George Hall, colored, shot and instantly killed his wife. He then shot himself and it is thought the wound will prove fatal. Domestic trouble is supposed to have been the cause.

What Do They Cure?

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

"The Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases, those regular weaknesses, irregularities and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the breakdown, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and noting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

SEVEN PEOPLE KILLED

Many Others Injured by Tornado in Louisiana.

TOWN ENTIRELY DESTROYED

Another One Is Badly Wrecked—Communication With Stricken Section Interrupted and Later Reports May Increase Casualty List.

Shreveport, La., May 14.—Seven people are known to be dead and many others are injured as the result of a tornado which swept across Northwest Louisiana. The little town of Gilliam, twenty-five miles north of Shreveport, was destroyed and the town of Bolinger, on the east side of the river in Bossier parish, was badly wrecked.

Communication with the greater portion of the storm-swept section is interrupted and it is believed that later reports will increase the number of dead and injured.

It is said the work of destruction at Gilliam was complete, only two houses remaining intact. The town had a population of about 200.

The dead at Gilliam are said to be Mrs. J. T. Gardiner and three negroes. Arthur Vaughan is said to be badly injured.

At Bolinger the dead are Mrs. Mitchell Davis and two negroes. Mrs. Davis' mother is reported to be dying from injuries received. Charles Isom and family of six are reported among the injured. It was also reported that Oil City, in this parish, was wiped out by the tornado.

CYCLONE IN IOWA.

Kills One Woman and Destroys Many Farmhouses.

Des Moines, Ia., May 14.—A cyclone swept into Southwestern Iowa from Missouri, destroying many farmhouses in Fremont and Page counties and killing Mrs. Will Finley of Northboro, in Fremont county. The storm started near the little town of Watson, Mo., which was practically destroyed but with no loss of life. Several people were injured there, but none seriously. The cyclone then jumped into Iowa, destroying a schoolhouse near the Finley home, which was also completely demolished. It moved north-easterly, rising at intervals, until it dissipated itself about six miles west of Clarinda in the destruction of the Fred Herzberg farm buildings. The following homes were destroyed in the path of the storm: Henry Wieland, Claus Meyers, Tom Anderson, George Dalbey, all near Northboro, and B. L. Benedict, near Coin.

Troops Afford No Protection.

West Union, O., May 14.—Night riders burned the large barn of William Shell, four miles west of this city, almost under the very noses of soldiers under command of Captain Darrell.

AIDED BY ACCOMPLICE

Believed a Man Assisted Mrs. Bella Gunness.

WOMAN USED FOUR NAMES

Operated Matrimonial Murder Trust Under Different Cognomens and Also Engaged in Some Peculiar Financial Transactions.

Laporte, Ind., May 14.—Denials by Laporte officials that the Rev. R. A. Schnell had revealed to them the substance of his conversations with Ray Lamphere and the discovery of evidence that Mrs. Bella Gunness was aided by an accomplice in luring her victims to the farm are the latest developments in the case. The denials came from Dr. C. S. Mack, coroner; A. F. Smutzer, sheriff, and R. N. Smith, prosecuting attorney. In addition, H. W. Worden, attorney for the prisoner, issued a formal statement that he had given his client strict injunctions not to discuss the charges against him and concluding: "The fact is that Lamphere has never made a confession to anyone, and never will. He has nothing to confess."

The evidence regarding the aids of Mrs. Gunness came in a letter from a resident of Cleveland addressed to the local chief of police, Clinton Cochrane. It told of the writer's having met a stranger in that city last August, who gave him a photograph of "a rich widow who resided in Laporte," and tried to persuade him to come here to see the woman. The photograph is a fairly good likeness of Mrs. Gunness and was evidently taken some time ago.

Thomas Blackburn of Amboy, Ind., was discovered to be the man whom Ray Lamphere said he saw on the Guenther road the morning of the fire. Blackburn was accompanied by his wife and son. The time of his departure from the home of a relative showed that the meeting must have occurred about 4:30 o'clock.

Operated Under Four Names.

The new revelations that are being made each day in the case of Mrs. Bella Gunness, the Laporte murderess, include the discovery that she operated her matrimonial murder trust under four names, and that she also was engaged in peculiar financial deals that may involve a number of Laporte's leading citizens.

Advertising extensively all over the country and receiving an average of ten letters a day, Mrs. Gunness resorted to fictitious names for her schemes. The fact that one series of her letters were delivered at Michigan City and there called for by a man indicates to the authorities that she had an accomplice in that vicinity who may prove to have had a hand in her murders as well as a share of her spoils.

Under the name of Mrs. Belle Gunness, Mrs. Bella Sorenson and Mrs. Jennie Hinckley, the woman received mail at Laporte. Not satisfied with the three rural deliveries that daily reached her farm, she was accustomed to call at the Laporte postoffice three times a day.

In Michigan City her postoffice name was Mrs. Margaret Olson, and a man supposed to have been an employee carried away the many letters that came to her.

The financial transactions of Mrs. Gunness which bank officials are probing through a thorough search of their records, indicate that the woman was not averse to making loans at usurious rates of interest.

One of the men named in common rumor as having aided her in her perpetrating schemes along this line is a public official of Laporte. Other men are said to be fearful that their names may be dragged into the frauds of the wily widow, though none of them is suspected of having any knowledge of her crimes.

Believed to Be Bits of Gold.

Louis Schultz, the miner who is sluicing the ashes and cinders from the cellar of the Gunness house, turned over to Sheriff Smutzer a number of pieces of fused metal which he found in the tailing of the sluice box. Several of these relics are globules and believed to be bits of gold.

Schultz also found some small pieces of bone. One of these, the sheriff says, is thought to be a portion of a vertebrae.

A new witness regarding Mrs. Gunness' fear for Lamphere was found. Bertha Schultz, a clerk in a local dry goods store, said that the woman was in the store several days before the fire and told her that she was afraid that Lamphere would set fire to the farmhouse.

A schedule of Mrs. Gunness' personal property was filed by Executor Fogle. Besides $720 in the bank, the items consist of live stock, crops, harness, vehicles and other farm implements, the whole, aside from the money, being appraised at $820.80.

Some insurance is said to be due the estate as the result of the destruction of the house and furniture, but no mention of it is made in the document on record.

A threatening letter which came to Attorney Smith is a brief, typewritten communication, postmarked Brooklyn, and reading: "If you don't stop search for Mrs. Gunness you'll be a dead man in two weeks. This applies to the sheriff, the chief of police and other officials."

SCENE OF SLAUGHTER.

Yekaterinoslav, May 14.—The attempt made by prisoners to break out of the government jail here after making a breach in the wall of the guard-room with a bomb was a complete failure, but it brought about a horrible scene of slaughter in and around the jail building. Twenty-eight of the prisoners were shot to death by the guard, and another of them has since died of his wounds. Thirty others were wounded, and it is expected that several of these will succumb.

As soon as the bomb was thrown one of the detachment of prisoners charged the guards in the courtyard and attempted to climb the wall. Twelve of these men were instantly killed, while others were wounded. At the same time a second body of prisoners rushed to the kitchen and, seizing knives and other weapons, attempted to cut their way to liberty. They were surrounded and killed to a man by the soldiers, who had been hastily summoned by the prison authorities.

The explosion threw the whole prison into a state of panic. The inmates who took no part in the plot gathered in the windows overlooking the courtyard. They were ordered to draw back, but refused, whereupon the guards fired volleys into the open windows. Two prisoners were shot down while attempting to escape over the roof of the building. So far as is known, not one succeeded in getting away. The chief warden of the prison is among the wounded.

MAKES TWO FLIGHTS.

Aeroplane Invented by Ohio Men Works Perfectly.

Manteo, N. C., May 14.—Over the narrow and forsaken stretch of country that juts out in sand dunes into the Atlantic ocean, the aeroplane invented by Dayton (O.) aeronauts made two flights with apparently the most successful results. The aeroplane worked perfectly and the ship sailed gracefully into the air, executed various maneuvers at the will of the inventors, and then dropped back to earth without a hitch.

The inventors, who called their own machine, the Wright brothers, seem greatly pleased at the results accomplished by the day's experiments. The first flight made was in a straight-away course and the airship sped directly along the route mapped out for it for three-quarters of a mile. Then the aeroplane made a complete circle and covered a distance of approximately three miles. Both times the machine was apparently under the most perfect control.

What Do They Cure?

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels (as mucous colitis), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting a cure.

"The Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nerve. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the breakdown, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulae of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines. The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

WOMAN USED FOUR NAMES

Operated Matrimonial Murder Trust Under Different Cognomens and Also Engaged in Some Peculiar Financial Transactions.

Laporte, Ind., May 14.—Denials by Laporte officials that the Rev. R. A. Schnell had revealed to them the substance of his conversations with Ray Lamphere and the discovery of evidence that Mrs. Bella Gunness was aided by an accomplice in luring her victims to the farm are the latest developments in the case. The denials came from Dr. C. S. Mack, coroner; A. F. Smutzer, sheriff, and R. N. Smith, prosecuting attorney. In addition, H. W. Worden, attorney for the prisoner, issued a formal statement that he had given his client strict injunctions not to discuss the charges against him and concluding:

"The fact is that Lamphere has never made a confession to anyone, and never will. He has nothing to confess."

The evidence regarding the aids of Mrs. Gunness came in a letter from a resident of Cleveland addressed to the local chief of police, Clinton Cochran. It told of the writer's having met a stranger in that city last August, who gave him a photograph of "a rich widow who resided in Laporte," and tried to persuade him to come here to see the woman. The photograph is a fairly good likeness of Mrs. Gunness and was evidently taken some time ago.

Thomas Blackburn of Amboy, Ind., was discovered to be the man whom Ray Lamphere said he saw on the Guenther road the morning of the fire. Blackburn was accompanied by his wife and son. The time of his departure from the home of a relative showed that the meeting must have occurred about 4:30 o'clock.

Operated Under Four Names.

The new revelations that are being made each day in the case of Mrs. Bella Gunness, the Laporte murderess, include the discovery that she operated her matrimonial murder trust under four names, and that she also was engaged in peculiar financial deals that may involve a number of Laporte's leading citizens.

Advertising extensively all over the country and receiving an average of ten letters a day, Mrs. Gunness resorted to fictitious names for her schemes. The fact that one series of her letters were delivered at Michigan City and there called for by a man indicates to the authorities that she had an accomplice in that vicinity who may prove to have had a hand in her murders as well as a share of her spoils.

Under the name of Mrs. Belle Gunness, Mrs. Bella Sorenson and Mrs. Jennie Hinckley, the woman received mail at Laporte. Not satisfied with the three rural deliveries that daily reached her farm, she was accustomed to call at the Laporte postoffice three times a day.

In Michigan City her postoffice name was Mrs. Margaret Olson, and a man supposed to have been an employee carried away the many letters that came to her.

The financial transactions of Mrs. Gunness which bank officials are probing through a thorough search of their records, indicate that the woman was not averse to making loans at usurious rates of interest.

One of the men named in common rumor as having aided her in her perpetrating schemes along this line is a public official of Laporte. Other men are said to be fearful that their names may be dragged into the frauds of the wily widow, though none of them is suspected of having any knowledge of her crimes.

Believed to Be Bits of Gold.

Louis Schultz, the miner who is sluicing the ashes and cinders from the cellar of the Gunness house, turned over to Sheriff Smutzer a number of pieces of fused metal which he found in the tailing of the sluice box. Several of these relics are globules and believed to be bits of gold.

Schultz also found some small pieces of bone. One of these, the sheriff says, is thought to be a portion of a vertebrae.

A new witness regarding Mrs. Gunness' fear for Lamphere was found. Bertha Schultz, a clerk in a local dry goods store, said that the woman was in the store several days before the fire and told her that she was afraid that Lamphere would set fire to the farmhouse.

A schedule of Mrs. Gunness' personal property was filed by Executor Fogle. Besides $720 in the bank, the items consist of live stock, crops, harness, vehicles and other farm implements, the whole, aside from the money, being appraised at $820.80.

Some insurance is said to be due the estate as the result of the destruction of the house and furniture, but no mention of it is made in the document on record.

A threatening letter which came to Attorney Smith is a brief, typewritten communication, postmarked Brooklyn, and reading: "If you don't stop search for Mrs. Gunness you'll be a dead man in two weeks. This applies to the sheriff, the chief of police and other officials."

SCENE OF SLAUGHTER.

Yekaterinoslav, May 14.—The attempt made by prisoners to break out of the government jail here after making a breach in the wall of the guard-room with a bomb was a complete failure, but it brought about a horrible scene of slaughter in and around the jail building. Twenty-eight of the prisoners were shot to death by the guard, and another of them has since died of his wounds. Thirty others were wounded, and it is expected that several of these will succumb.

As soon as the bomb was thrown one of the detachment of prisoners charged the guards in the courtyard and attempted to climb the wall. Twelve of these men were instantly killed, while others were wounded. At the same time a second body of prisoners rushed to the kitchen and, seizing knives and other weapons, attempted to cut their way to liberty. They were surrounded and killed to a man by the soldiers, who had been hastily summoned by the prison authorities.

The explosion threw the whole prison into a state of panic. The inmates who took no part in the plot gathered in the windows overlooking the courtyard. They were ordered to draw back, but refused, whereupon the guards fired volleys into the open windows. Two prisoners were shot down while attempting to escape over the roof of the building. So far as is known, not one succeeded in getting away. The chief warden of the prison is among the wounded.

MAKES TWO FLIGHTS.

Aeroplane Invented by Ohio Men Works Perfectly.

Manteo, N. C., May 14.—Over the narrow and forsaken stretch of country that juts out in sand dunes into the Atlantic ocean, the aeroplane invented by Dayton (O.) aeronauts made two flights with apparently the most successful results. The aeroplane worked perfectly and the ship sailed gracefully into the air, executed various maneuvers at the will of the inventors, and then dropped back to earth without a hitch.

The inventors, who called their own machine, the Wright brothers, seem greatly pleased at the results accomplished by the day's experiments. The first flight made was in a straight-away course and the airship sped directly along the route mapped out for it for three-quarters of a mile. Then the aeroplane made a complete circle and covered a distance of approximately three miles. Both times the machine was apparently under the most perfect control.
